Dam Square

The Dam Square is the historical centre of Amsterdam and namesake of the city. It links the Damrak and Rokin, two of the busiest and main streets of Amsterdam, which run along the course of the original Amstel river route (Central Station to Muntplein). Dam Square is truly the heart of Amsterdam. The square is home to the Royal Palace (frequently used by the royal family for state dinners and the like), the famous flagship department store Bijenkorf, the New Church (used for exhibitions and royal family occasions), Madame Tussauds, the Krasnapolsky Hotel, the National Monument and the Koninklijke Industriële Groote Club building in which our hotel will be housed.

Industria Building

Known as the home of the Koninklijke Industriële Groote Club (translates in English to: Grand Industrial Club) this historic building dates back to 1913. Built specifically for the famous Koninklijke Industriële Groote Club society. The founders wanted to create a centre for the newly booming Dutch industry and trade, where tycoons, entrepreneurs and the like-minded could come together. The society is now based in the first two floors of the building and TwentySeven will be housed in the 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th floors. These floors offer spectacular views of the Dam Square and Rokin and towering over the city. HOTEL TWENTYSEVEN AMSTERDAM

DESIGN

Be swept into the most opulent sanctuary The Netherlands has to offer. To call TwentySeven a hotel feels to be a scandal. Defying logic and re-defining luxury in Amsterdam, no detail has gone unnoticed. Every inch, every surface, every corner you turn is ordained in the finest, the richest, the most surreal design and atmosphere imaginable. All 6 senses have been dreamed out in extraordinary detail.

Every material, fabric and concept has been curated by award winning Dutch Designer Wim van de Oudeweetering, together with the top visionary Dutch hotelier Eric Toren. For this dream duo the attention to detail is paramount and unprecedented in Amsterdam.

The monumental building TwentySeven is carved into is a turn of the century building from the time of the industrial revolution. While keeping in tact the original framework TwentySeven has created a modern luxurious dream within a capsule of timelessness.

Upon entering the monumental doors of TwentySeven ones eye will be drawn to the alluring handmade light sculpture specially created by the famous light designer Brand van Egmond combining classic techniques with a modern precision.

Be greeted by the graceful personnel at the welcome desk which is ordained with a special selection of backlit Onyx to receive guests into a natural glow. The beautiful patterns and materials were uniquely designed by the natural experts at Solid Nature.

Continuing the experience up to the atrium and reception area on the 3rd floor, the grandiose hand-blown glass light sculpture chandelier plummets from the skylights above the 7th floor to the reception area, 4 floors below. The timeless craft of the hand-blown glass has been made in the village of Leerdam, famous the world over for its art of glass craftsmanship. When the night falls over Amsterdam the fairy tale color spectrum of this remarkable piece illuminates the core of the hotel.

TwentySeven's signature scent, created by the international home fragrance designer brand Delush, softly enchants the air of this sanctuary.

Specialty carpets by Belgium design Lano ordain the original monumental staircases and corridors. Original stain-glass windows illuminate these stairways.

Upon entering the 3rd floor the charming staff is on hand to help with all details of your stay, relax in the VIP lounge with soft textured walls and sofas dressed in beautiful Rubelli fabrics. The unique design creates a distinct illusion of the sofa extending out of the wall.

The intriguing glow of diamonds and jewels of Gassan Diamonds is delicately visible to shine onto your senses before entering the dream restaurant Bougainville & the opulent TwentySeven bar which strikes again with the luxurious allure and the natural beauty of the glowing Onyx bar crafted from a special cut by Solid Nature.

Lavish wall dressings are warm and woven with copper threads and woodwork with golden and bronze patinas. The most exclusive fabrics from Rubelli of Venice, using patterns from their 18th century archives to compliment the era of the building.

Special jacquard textiles are used to decorate the walls produced in Italy by The Sign.

BOUGAINVILLE

Pascal Jalhay

His kitchen, his Bougainville.

He is seen as one of the most innovative chefs of his generation, has published two cookbooks and is busy writing a third as well as an autobiography. Chef Pascal has learned only from the best. His break through was the famous restaurant Vermeer, where he was awarded two Michelin stars in less than two years, which had never happened before in the history of the Michelin Guide, and so became the youngest two Michelin Star chef in the country.

"Talent and quality should not be withheld; you must dare to reveal it."

At a young age Chef Pascal knew that he wanted to pursue his dream of becoming a Chef. After successful completion of his courses and training Chef Pascal really learned to cook at many top restaurants in Belgium and the Netherlands.

"Concessions should never be made."

Restaurant Bougainville is located in the monumental Industria building with a unique view of Dam Square with the legendary World War II monument and The Royal Palace.

For special Gastronomic occasions restaurant Bougainville has a Chefs Room, where guests can have a special private dinner with views of the famous Rokin and is the only table looking in on the main kitchen.

In Bougainville we create beautiful dishes, where the noblest ingredients in a stylish and romantic atmosphere are the most essential ingredients in our customer experience, whom we regard as our privileged guests of Bougainville. "Kneading, altering and manipulating flavours simulating a culinary roller coaster ride on your pallet is our aspiration". The focus is on natural flavours. These flavours play a leading role in the theatre of gastronomy; allow the flavours to rupture in your mouth. At Bougainville the accent is on finding the best (local) ingredients; searching for tones instead of flavours, creating an emotion.

"Fire" has always been the most prominent ingredient for Pascal; in temperature, in finding passionate flavours yet mostly the fire in the eyes of his team's eagerness, passion and enthusiasm!
